triangle graffiti makes raleigh graffiti great

The NGC crew began in earnest in Durham, North Carolina back in 2008.

Originakly titled 'the New Glue Crew' after an elementary school incident involvingPresident Mountain (NGC), a young girl, a pair of safety scissors, and some of their teacher's super glue. Many more acronyms have and will continue to trickle out... NICE GUYS CLUB

While not all of the over 30 members from 9 states, live in or have ever been to NC, the spirit of the early years remains true through out their travels. Following streams to tunnels, following tracks to trains.

They don't live in the same town, or even the same state. They always try and connect when in each others city. They share paint and food and money and stories with one another and with other crews. Spreading the good word and wisdom they've gained -mostly the hard way. 'two the hard way' They are not a crew united by colors, style, or music taste. They are down because they are good people and love crime. Even those who hardly paint anymore still bear the message of freedom. Time will never stop

As they progress into their 12th year, NGC finds themselves strewn about the country selling Christmas trees, following lovers to Mexico, having their second child, and traveling to foreign lands to spray.

Still hopping trains,
still not lovin' police,
still got love for the streets,

It's the NGC.
